

NANONEEDLING AND MICRONEEDLING - WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The key difference between the two is the depth that the needles are able to penetrate into the skin. Nano-needling only punctures the first layer of the skin (epidermis) while micro-needling penetrates into the deep dermis. Both microneedling and nanoneedling promote skin cell turnover, deliver serum infusion into the skin, stimulate the healing process, and improve fine lines, wrinkles, and superficial acne scars with little or no downtime.

Microneedling is a medical treatment and nanoneedling is a cosmetic treatment.
